

HERBERT WERTHEIM
COLLEGE OF MEDICINE &
THE PROGRAM FOR THE STUDY OF SPIRITUALITY

PRESENT DR. JOHN LOIKE

two different presentations on

Monday March 3, 2014

in AHC2 170

12-1 pm: Bioethical Dilemmas Emerging from Human Cloning Technologies

3:30-5pm: Real-life Bioethical Challenges: a Q & A Forum

Dr. John D. Loike serves as Director of Special Programs in Columbia University's Center for Bioethics and faculty in the Department of Physiology at Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons. His research focuses on the role of immune cells in cancer and neurodegenerative diseases. He serves as the course director of Crossroads in Bioethics, Bioethics for Biomedical Engineers at Columbia College. He is the co-course director for a graduate-level course called "Atherosclerosis and the Mechanisms of Disease."